

LEGACY COLLECTION 2020

ERIC TOBIN

Eric Tobin is a highly regarded and heavily collected landscape painter from Vermont. His style and subject matter have a universal appeal, primarily because of his unique ability to capture the beauty of the moment, the light, and the setting. His love for his native Vermont can be seen in each of his works; they evoke the feelings of the natural setting in which he chooses to paint. All of his work is done outdoors, regardless of time of year, difficult setting, or rapidly changing conditions. Upon viewing his artwork many people find themselves drawn into them and experience the feeling they would have if they were actually present at the time of its painting.

Eric Tobin's work has been shown by many New England galleries and is in private and corporate collections across the country, and abroad. Some of his accolades include First Prize for Oils in the Annual Northern Vermont Artist Association juried show in 1992 and 1995, as well as their Merit Award in 1994, 1995 and 1996. He was awarded The Grumbacher Award in Stowe, Vermont's Helen Day Art Center "For Art's Sake" Show, as well as Best In Show for 1992 and 2000, and the Best In Oils award in 1992. In the annual NVAA show at the Bryan Memorial Gallery, he was awarded the Holbein Award in 1999.

“I strive to paint the feeling of a place and particularly like painting in the winter, spring, summer, and fall.”
